Most of the Gas Companies throughout the country use a fleet of Ford Runabouts. The same is true of other big corporations. The reasons are very practical. The Ford Runabout is the most economical solution of quick transportation from manufacturer to retailer. For soliciting business, for the Collector, for the Doctor, Contractor, Builder, and almost every other line of business activity, the Ford Runabout is really a necessity. We solicit your order for one or more. We ask your repair business. We would like your motor accessory business. We can serve you, we believe, to your best advantage.

THRONGS OF PEOPLE BID "WELCOME HOME" TO OUR RETURNED SOLDIERS

GRAYLING'S BIGGEST CELEBRATION

"WELCOME HOME" DAY FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS MOST SUCCESSFUL EVENT.

Not A Dull Moment During Entire Day and Evening. Ideal Weather Added to Pleasure of the Day.

For many months, ever since the armistice had been signed and our Crawford county boys had begun to return home, there had been in the minds of many of our citizens the desire to fittingly extend to them a welcome that might in at least a small measure be commensurate to the service they had rendered and one that might come somewhere near expressing to our boys the heartfelt thankfulness and joy of the people at home in having them back again. As the days wore on and many of our boys were still in service the home-coming celebration was postponed until last Monday, September 1.

The several committees had worked hard to make the day one that would be fitting and worthy of the occasion and as the affair turned out they are to be congratulated for the excellent program that was presented and the capable manner in which it was carried out.

There wasn't a dull moment from the opening to the closing and everything was carried out with clock-like precision.

The day dawned with Old Sol right on the job and his luster never dimmed until he dropped below the horizon at the end of a most perfect day. There was an exquisite freshness about the atmosphere that filled all with an exuberance of good cheer and good nature.

An early start for the decorating committee had finished their task and the downtown streets were ablaze with flags and bunting and near the Michigan Central depot was a large "Welcome" sign, with fine long flags hanging down each side of it. Another similar sign hung at the Court yard corner. Added to this was the decorations of the local business places. Surely Grayling streets never looked more dressed up, and the new decorations were a much improvement over the old bunting style used in the past. Green pine trees were fastened before the telephone and electric light poles and added much to the good appearance of the streets.

Promptly at nine o'clock in the morning the Citizens Band began a musical concert, playing in the band stand. Already considerable crowd had congregated and by 10:00 o'clock the street was crowded.

At 10:00 o'clock the parade was lined up on Chestnut street near the school house, by Charles O. McCullough and Mike Brenner, marshals of the day. It proceeded north to McClellan street passing Mercy hospital, and down Peninsula avenue to Ottawa street, to Railroad street, Michigan avenue, to Park street, Ottawa and Spruce where it was dismissed.

Ahead of the parade rode Mike Brenner mounted upon a white steed, leading triumphantly a most noble assembly of soldiers, sailors and civilians. Immediately following was the Citizens band dressed in dark blue braided coats and white duck trousers with Lieut. Arthur McIntyre as drum major, all making a most striking appearance.

Then came the Colors, carried by Sgt. Martin J. Taylor with "Jackies" Benjamin A. Laurent and Einar Rasmussen as color guards. Immediately back of the colors were the soldiers and sailors, under command of Col. A. H. Gansser of Bay City. There were about seventy in line, and we are pleased to here submit the names as they appeared upon the register that day. They are as follows:

The boys made a most inspiring appearance and it made the home people swell up with pride at the fine looking lot of boys that Crawford county had contributed to Uncle Sam's army and navy. They were in splendid lineup and their steps were in perfect union. They received considerable applause along the entire line of march.

Back of the Soldiers and sailors was a Red Cross float—an auto covered all over with white and large red crosses on each side of the hood and one in the rear and the sides dotted with smaller Red Crosses and a band of one-inch Red Crosses running entirely around the upper body of the float. It was driven by Miss Anna Nelson, secretary of Crawford county chapter. Besides Miss Nelson there were six young ladies in the auto and all wore Red Cross uniforms. This float was specially favored with applause. Next came an auto bearing the few remaining members of Crawford County's G. A. R.

C. O. McCullough, who was one of the marshals of the day, walked next and just ahead of the Labor union. There were about 200 Union men in line and was a good representation of the railroad working forces in Grayling. Following are the several organizations as they appeared in the parade: Maintenance of ways, Switchmen's union, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, International Boiler Makers' union, Brotherhood of Railroad trainmen, International Machinists Union and the order of railway clerks.

Then came a long line of fraternal organizations, floats and decorated autos. The Loyal Order of Moose had a fine float with an enormous moose head on the hood of the car and also had a number of members riding and afoot, wearing their lodge regalia. Grayling Council had an attractive Knights of Columbus hut, and a long line of members marching behind it.

Next in line was the fire engine. (Continued on last page.)

R. R. UNIONS CELEBRATE LABOR DAY

TAKE PART IN PARADE AND IN EVENING HOLD MASS MEETING AND SPEECHES.

Col. A. H. Gansser and W. F. Johnston Deliver Stirring Addresses.

For the first time in the history of Grayling, Labor day was celebrated here by labor unions. During the past year or more several local union organizations have been formed here and it was the desire of the members that they make showing commensurate with the standing of their several organizations.

The unions had a splendid turnout and made a showing that would be a credit to any city.

The parade committee of the "Welcome home" celebration had cordially invited the unions to join with them upon this day and take a part in the parade, which they gladly did and certainly made a good showing. There were fully 200 men in line in the parade.

For the evening a mass meeting was called to be held in the Temple theatre at 8:00 p. m. and when that time arrived about every seat in the theatre was occupied.

The meeting was called to order by W. Jamison, and he introduced as the first speaker, Col. A. H. Gansser of Bay City. Col. Gansser was to speak on the American Legion, a post of which is being formed in Grayling. He touched lightly upon that subject, as he expected to have a meeting later with the soldiers at the school house. He advocated the building of a large community hall for the veterans of the Great war and the people generally. He also reviewed some of the conditions of labor and industry of the nation and emphasized the duties of employers and employees and their responsibilities to one another. His talk was frank and straight from the shoulder and left no doubt in the minds of his auditors as to what he believed the honest duty of each of those bodies. Thruout his address it was sparkling with wit and humor and kept his audience in a pleasing mood.

The Plumb plan for the control of railroads was to be subject of a talk to be given by Wm. F. Johnston of Roscommon. He also touched lightly upon the principal subject, but gave reasons why he believed that only organization could bring success to the people and prosperity to the Nation. He strongly advocated the organization of the producers of food stuffs and the consumers so that more direct and economical buying might be had, thus cutting out the middlemen and profiteers, who were growing fat from the efforts of the laboring people without themselves doing anything toward production. He stated that he was not well enough posted upon the Plumb plan to enable him to discuss its merits. He gave an outline of the plan as it appeared to him and believed that all should get back of it and help to get it thru. The general scheme of the Plumb plan is as follows: The President of the nation would appoint five men to represent the government, the operators to appoint five men and the railroad employees to appoint five men, all forming a commission of fifteen men. This body was to operate the railroads and any profits resulting were to be divided between the employees and the government. To acquire the railroad systems the Government was to issue 4 per cent bonds and purchase them from the owners. Should the profits exceed at any time 5 per cent, then there was to be a reduction in rate and that at all times profits were to be kept within the 5 per cent.

Mr. Johnston handled his talk in plain language and said many things that might well be taken profitably. Mr. Johnston is the County agent for Crawford and Roscommon counties and it is largely thru his success as organizer that he is helping the farmers of these counties that is certain to bring better crops and better remuneration for their labors.

This was a red-letter day for the local unions and the men have a right to feel proud over the showing they made upon this their first Labor day effort.

REVIVAL MEETINGS IN THE FREE METHODIST CHURCH.

Revival meetings are now being held in the Free Methodist church on State St. Services every night at 8 p. m.

The meetings have been in progress one week, and a number have sought and found God.

Rev. Daniel Skanes, the pastor is being assisted by local help. The meetings will continue for a few weeks. Last Sunday was a high day in general, for the little church here—three grand services were held, and those that could not attend missed a feast indeed. Come and bring your friends. Let the church be filled. Daniel Skanes, Pastor.

GRAYLING TAKES 2 FROM FAST HANSON-WARD TEAM.

The Hanson-Ward Veneer company team of Bay City played two games in Grayling—Sunday and Monday, the home team taking the series. The first game was won in the ninth inning when the visitors dropped the third strike on a batter after two men were out and neglected to throw the ball to first, thus the batter was safe at that station, and during this time W. Laurent scored from third. It was a fluke play but perfectly legitimate. The score was 8 to 7 in favor of Grayling.

KINDERGARTEN HELPS FOR PARENTS

CULTIVATE YOUR CHILD'S CONFIDENCE AND BE HIS CLOSEST FRIEND.

(By Martha Galaudet Waring.)

A little child begins by "telling mother" everything. Bumps or bruises, joys or sorrows, all are brought to her as naturally as the child draws breath, and this continues as long as he is totally unconscious of himself as an individual.

The time for special care is when he becomes aware of himself as a separate entity. From this time, on a cold look, an indifferent air, an uninterested attitude, a word of ridicule or sarcasm may wound the child's sense of confidence or justice so deeply that he will shrink within himself and never again show his inmost thoughts or most sacred feelings to his mother or to anyone else. Incalculable harm is done through thoughtlessness, even by the most devoted parents, in failing to recognize this stage of the child's development and to reverence his individuality and his right to it. The mother loses the greatest power for good she possesses, and misses the greatest joy and recompense she can have by not sharing her child's hopes and fears, his troubles and triumphs. The bitter experience will come to her sooner or later of realizing that her child is sharing these with another person who must, therefore, be spiritually nearer to him than she is.

There are a few absolutely certain ways of avoiding this catastrophe which have been used over and over again by wise and devoted mothers. One is, never fail to listen attentively and sympathetically, no matter at what inconvenience giving your best wisdom to help your child see his problem clearly for himself. Another is, respect your child as a spiritual being, an individual as different from all other individuals as God meant him to be. Meet him on his own ground, and do not try to make him conform to a pattern of your own. Respect your child's confidence absolutely. Once betrayed, it may never be given again. A young lad of 12 I once knew, told his mother something that greatly interested him, and asked her not to tell anyone about it. Later in the day he passed under the bay window in which she and a friend were sitting with their sewing, and he heard her telling what he had told her in confidence. He was a rather quiet lad but very determined, and after the visitor left he went to his mother and said: "Mother, I passed under the window and I heard you telling Mrs. Blank what I asked you not to mention to anyone. I just want to let you know that as long as I live I will never again tell you anything that concerns myself until I am ready for everybody to know it." And he kept his word, although he was always a most devoted and dutiful son.

Never meet a situation which appears absurd to you with ridicule or sarcasm; this is fatal.

Perhaps the most important rule of all is, do not be afraid to discuss any subject, to meet truth with truth, frankness with frankness, confidence with confidence. Long ago I told my children I would always give honest answers to their questions in as far as they could understand them, and would explain more as they grew older. Give them scientific truths when they ask for them, reverently and simply, and know the joy of seeing their minds open to the facts of life with appreciation of their beauty and holiness, and of watching their love and respect grow for their father and mother and for all life!

Never be afraid of confessing ignorance. A child thoroughly respects the answer: "I don't know accurately enough to tell you correctly; let us look it up together." This is where father can be brought in with effect even if he is much away and very busy, for a child can soon learn in confidential talks with mother that father would be just as much interested, just as anxious to help, and just as good or perhaps a better advisor, if only he were there. Then whenever his advice is especially needed, the matter can be referred to him at a convenient time.

To be a parent is a vocation, not a pastime. God has given into our keeping an individual not a replica of ourselves for a plaything, and it is not enough to give only our love, which is a natural gift; we must give spiritual insight and understanding, joy in the child's growing and developing powers and true companionship. Help to reach all the parents of the country by cutting this out and passing it on to a friend.

TOLD IN GRAYLING.

A Resident Known to All Our Readers

Readers of the Avalanche have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons, living far away. The cases are Grayling cases, told by Grayling people.

W. A. McNeal, Chestnut St., says: "Sometimes my kidneys have been out of order, causing the kidney secretions to pass too frequently. Colds settle on my kidneys, also. I have used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I get at Olson's Drug Store, at these times, and they have always strengthened my kidneys and cured me of the attack."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. McNeal had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

Palmer Warns Dry Law "Violators". Washington—Liquor dealers who have been violating the prohibition law, secure in the belief that department of justice agents were too busy in the high cost of living investigation to give attention to them, are due a rude awakening, according to Attorney General Palmer. Recent arrests in New York and other cities, Mr. Palmer said, were only forerunners of what is to come and those who believe prohibition laws can be evaded will be shown differently.

If the people of Grayling enjoy good base ball games it will be necessary that the management get good players and that costs money. A good game is worth 50 cents and good teams cannot be brought to Grayling to play for a less amount. Nearby teams may possibly be played at 35 cents admission but there seem to be none here that can "Give us a ball game," as the fans are constantly crying. Let's have good games and make up our minds that they will cost us 50 cents admission, and that it will be necessary that there are good attendances each day, or else we won't have any games. Grayling has an exceptionally fast team of all home players. Their treasury is depleted and unless the people give them good support they will have to quit playing. The season is nearly over but a successful finish will mean a good team next season and failure this season is little inducement to our boys to get out and hustle up a team for another season of financial loss.

The Trouble With Tommy

By WILL T. AMES

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The trouble with Tommy Ellis showed itself from the first day he went to school. It was a little school, and there were just fifty books on the walls of the boys' "entry," with fifty-one boys to hang their hats on them. Half a dozen of the new boys were younger and smaller than Tommy, who had reached the ripe age of seven; but Tommy it was who had to lay his cap on the floor in the corner because he let the other fellows grab while he held back. Tommy didn't like having to put his cap on the floor any better than the other boys. But somebody's had to go there, and so it was Tommy's.

It wasn't because he was slow or stupid that Tommy, from that time on, took the dust of his schoolmates and later on the choice of whatever was being given out in the way of favors or jobs or opportunities. On the contrary, Tommy was brighter and quicker and naturally more skillful and clever than the majority of boys. But he was utterly lacking in self-assertiveness.

The only occasion on which Tommy's hand went up in time to be recognized by the teacher, when she was showing off her pupils to visiting parents or committeemen, was when he was the only child in the room who knew the answer to the question. If one or two or a dozen of the others were prepared with the desired information they were all sure to beat Tommy to it.

There was a little girl whom Tommy worshiped in his secret soul. One day her hat blew off. She was the school beauty, so five boys put chase after the hat. Tommy, as usual, got started last, having been bumped out of his stride by another boy. It was a freak wind and of a sudden the hat shifted its course and came straight at Tommy and a mud puddle. Tommy headed it off and all blushing, took a single step toward his inamorata. Then another boy grabbed the hat away from Tommy and himself bestowed it upon its owner, with the air of one having rescued it from the puddle instead of paroluing it from the blushed Tommy's worshipful hand. The little girl, whose name was Annabelle, looked on with a smile, but the other boys, whose name was Floyd Cushman, and never even gave Tommy a glance.

And so it was. At twenty Tommy was holding down the worst possible job in the gift of the superintendent of the one-horse interurban trolley company, a job which no one else would take, and which necessitated his getting up at an unreasonable hour in the morning, and walking a mile after taking the last car into the barn at night, with all his leisure time in the middle of the day—and what use can a young fellow make of the hours from ten till three?

The use that Tommy made of them was to think, hopelessly and with a sinking heart, about that same Annabelle Hester whose hat he saved from being muddled when he was a little boy. Annabelle was a stenographer in town now, but she still lived in the suburban village, and very often rode out on the car on which Tommy collected the fares.

She was always friendly and nice to Tommy, and now and then he ventured to talk to her a little, but only now and then, because Tommy fancied Annabelle seemed a little nervous and ill at ease at such times, perhaps as though she didn't just care about getting too intimate with a conductor. Another reason was that Floyd Cushman, who was in college now, and going to be a lawyer, rode out with Annabelle whenever he came back to the village, which was pretty often, and quite took possession of her. Yes, Tommy felt altogether "out of it" with Annabelle.

Then the war came. Tommy went as a buck private and came back as one. He wasn't, it appeared, of non-com material, though an intelligent, studious and conscientious soldier. Floyd Cushman, jamming his way in the attention of his superiors at Plattsburg and later in France, attained to a captaincy before he met his finish above Verdun.

When Tommy was demobilized they gave him back his old run, and it was the third evening that he saw Annabelle Hester. The girl had climbed to the platform of the car and was on the point of entering when she glanced up and saw Tommy. She went white, then rose. "Why, Tommy—Tommy Ellis!" she exclaimed. "When on earth did you get back? I didn't—I never heard—Annabelle was becoming inarticulate."

Tommy Ellis had been through what no man can go through and still be quite as he was before. Much of his old self-consciousness was gone.

"Annabelle," he said in a manly, direct way, "I'm dreadfully sorry about Floyd. I'm the only one you know who was there when it happened. All the way back I was thinking you'd want to know, and that the first thing I'd do would be to tell you. If you'll let me know when I'll get off and come over to your house and tell you."

"Do, Tommy, come tomorrow in your off-time. I'm going to be home. And I do want to hear everything," Tommy didn't notice the odd, studying look the girl gave him. But he promised to go; and next day he went.

Tommy told Annabelle about the speed and rush of the great movement when the Americans cleaned out the Verdun salient; how most of the doughboys were racing to get in touch with the enemy, but now and then coming unexpectedly on the deadly machine gun nests of the rear guard; how Captain Cushman, commanding Tommy's own platoon because of a shortage of lieutenants, had stormed one of these enemy positions and had been shot leading his men across an open field. "He died bravely, Miss Annabelle," said Tommy, in conclusion. "I wish he could have lived to come back." And then, after a little, the new Tommy asserted himself enough to venture—"to you."

Annabelle looked straight at Tommy. "As a soldier," she asked, "do you think it was necessary for Captain Cushman to lose his life at that time and place? Do you think those things could have been driven out without a frontal attack? Was it good leadership to do what he did?"

"Why, Miss Annabelle," exclaimed Tommy, taken wholly by surprise by this questioning, "what—what makes you doubt it?"

"Because," replied the girl, "I know all about it. You are not the only person I have seen who was there. Sergeant Fenton of my squad is my cousin. He told me about it. It was a mad, blundering, headstrong piece of thoughtless bravado, and it cost many lives besides his. Tommy Ellis, I know something else. I know you didn't let Floyd Cushman. I know he always treated you contemptuously. Then why did you, when he was struck down, leave the cover Fenton had ordered you to take, and go out there into that rain of bullets in a dear, wonderful, foolish, crazy attempt to save him and bring him back to the ranks? I know all about it. I tell you! But why did you do it—what made you?"

"Why—why—why, Annabelle, there wasn't anything else to do when I thought of you, waiting for him to come back."

"But, Tommy! I wasn't waiting for Floyd to come back. You dear, self-effacing, modest, morbid old Tommy—I was waiting for you. And I've always been waiting for you all my mortal life. Tommy Ellis, are you going to live the rest of your existence in the old way, letting everything go for want of enough cruelty or wickedness or—gunplay—or whatever it is to reach out and grab? Or are you going to grab—me?" Annabelle was laughing and crying at once. But she cried at together, and shuddered as she sobbed: "And you almost threw your life away!"

The war helped some. Annabelle helped a great deal more. Tommy got a better run next day. Last month he beat out three candidates for assistant division superintendent. If you push Tommy now you'll get pushed back.

Fish Plentiful in Chile.

Along the coast of Chile, many sections of which are practically uninhabited at present, graves of the aborigines are found in great numbers, and they invariably contain implements for sea fishing. From prehistoric times the coast of Chile has been noted for its diverse and extensive fisheries. The fishes are so plentiful that sea birds, by the millions, feeding on them, are found along the coast, and the numerous canoe islands indicate the great length of time the birds frequented those waters. With methods similar to those used in other countries, the fishing industry could be revolutionized and established on a very large scale. The present methods in Chile are no more advanced than they were thousands of years ago. The need is felt by the Chileans themselves. The lack of sea food was recently the subject of a demand from the laborers to the government.

Busy Week for Charles.

Charles was being buttoned into a clean white suit one Sunday morning after a giddy week. "Well," he mused, "this has been some exciting week. Monday we went to the zoo; Wednesday I lost a tooth; Thursday was Gladys' birthday; Friday I was sick; yesterday I had my hair cut, and now here I am rushing off to Sunday school."

Battles on Sundays.

The date of the battle of Salamanca was Sunday, July 2, 1812; Vimera, Fontenoy, Oporto, Orthez, Toulouse and Victoria were also contested on what were known as "Wellington's Red Sundays." Waterloo was won on a Sunday. Waterloo was won on a Sunday. Waterloo was won on a Sunday—Feb. 18, 1900.

miners, to a Frenchman, Nicholas Apper, who began his experiments in canning in 1795 at Chalmers-sur-Marne. He worked and experimented for 15 years and in 1810 had practically perfected his system.

The first canning in the United States was for the preservation of sea foods. It was not until the decade following the Civil war that the superiority of canned foods over those which were preserved by salting, drying and pickling became recognized. Today the United States is the largest producer and consumer of canned foods.

Jolly Little Chipmunk.

The place the chipmunk fills is small and inconspicuous but his sylvan "chirrup" plays a minor strain in the wordless diapason which the mighty blue soul of nature is forever singing in her forests, streams and meadows for the free of heart. Intoning ever some clear sweet note of mystic melody, some clear who listen, to awaken a dreaming bliss or to thrill an untired fiber into quivering life.

CURRENT WIT and HUMOR

A SCHOLAR'S PROTEST.

"Ah! A Romeo and his Juliet," remarked Mr. Dubwaite, as a loving pair strolled past. "My dear sir," said Professor Diggs, "I have a great admiration for Romeo and Juliet as portrayed by the immortal Shakespeare. Apply the names of those graceful and romantic figures to a low-legged young man in a 'waist-line' coat and a calimnied young woman wearing a hobble skirt does great violence to my feelings."

Going the Rounds.

"That new nursemaid of Mrs. Styles seems a very obliging girl," said the lady in the sixth jumper. "What make you say so?" asked her friend in the purple gingham. "Well, yesterday morning I saw her out with Mrs. Styles' baby. In the afternoon with Mrs. Styles' dog, and in the evening with Mrs. Styles' husband."—London Answers.

IN NO DANGER.

Wife—The fact there are germs on money doesn't worry me! Hub—No, my dear. It would take a pretty active germ to hop from the money to you during the brief time you have it.

Boost Him.

I'm very fond Of William Black. He never talks Behind my back.

Easy Pickings.

"Why does this convicted stock swindler shed tears over the prospect of spending five years in the penitentiary. That isn't a long term." "It seems long to him. He's afraid by the time he gets out all the affairs will be separated from their liberty bonds."

It Got Him.

"Young man," said the educated stranger, stepping into the bookshop, "I would like to purchase a good thesaurus." "Well, why don't you take a look at the monogramic," answered the fresh but green clerk, "this is a book store."

HER QUESTION.

"For the past decade," declared the grocer, "women have been neglecting the home more or less." "Well," said the woman, "if we keep that up about 6,000 years, we'll be about square with the men, won't we?" After considering a while he did not attempt to refute her statement.

Merits of the Professor.

"I've just been introduced to Professor Smart. Such a charming man to talk to; he doesn't make one feel like a fool in spite of his cleverness." "Ah, my dear, that's because of his cleverness."

The Sugar and the Fly.

Vestryman (at meeting).—We must now take up the problem of getting our boys to church. New Minister.—That problem will solve itself if we can get our pretty daughters to go.

He Gets It Again.

Percy—Yes, I judge others by myself, don't you know. Miss Keen—Really! But isn't that rather a low standard of judgment?

A Sure Way.

"They seem to be happily married." "They are. Neither expects the other to be sweet and lovely always."

Palmer Warns Dry Law "Violators".

Washington—Liquor dealers who have been violating the prohibition law, secure in the belief that department of justice agents were too busy in the high cost of living investigation to give attention to them, are due a rude awakening, according to Attorney General Palmer. Recent arrests in New York and other cities, Mr. Palmer said, were only forerunners of what is to come and those who believe prohibition laws can be evaded will be shown differently.

Postal Workers Promised Raise.

Washington—The House Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads expects to get action in a few days on its bill to increase the pay of employees $150 a year. "This pay increase while not as much as the employees wanted, and not as much as they probably should have, is the best we could get," said Frank B. Doremus, of Detroit. "It adds about $40,000,000 to payroll."

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says: "I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation.

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

No More Worries Over Excessive Coal Bills

It is not generally known that even the small coal consumer can have his coal shipped direct from the mines, thus saving the profits that otherwise would go to the wholesaler and retail dealer, besides saving hauling expense. Of course, big manufacturers and other large consumers have always bought this way, but the man who buys only enough for his household is now in position to take advantage of the same purchasing privileges. The well-known BENJAMIN COAL CO., 908 South Dearborn St., Chicago, is doing an enormous business in supplying small consumers, as well as the big ones, with all grades of hard and soft coal at mine prices.

That these customers are highly pleased is evidenced by the letters they write after receiving and trying their coal. The following are extracts from several such letters: "Have found your coal entirely satisfactory and your dealings courteous and fair. I shall continue to buy my coal from you."—Ed. G. Gerke, Burlington, Ia. "More than pleased with it. Please quote me prices on same coal for December."—Arthur Churchman, Alexandria, Va. "Well pleased with it. ## WELCOME HOME CELEBRATION

The County Board of supervisors and Village council, members of the celebration executive committee. The DuPont company had a fine large float in white with a miniature Washington monument in the center, on each side was an embossed wreath containing the word "Victory." Festoons hung from the center to the corners and were held by young girls in white and on each side of the monument were little "Jackies" in their blue navy uniforms. It was the general opinion that this was the most classical of any of the floats. It was the work of some of the employees at the plant.

Other floats were Frank Dreese; Shoppington's Inn; Salling Hanson company department store; Burke's garage. (The latter was a very fine effort and a pretty attraction with Columbia seated in the center with a score or more of little children standing about her all waving flags. The float contained no name and many did not know what firm it represented.) Grayling Mercantile company dry goods and clothing; Grayling Tire and Accessories company; The Simpson company, groceries; Sorenson Bros., furniture; Central Drug store; Kerry & Hanson flooring company advertising "Chief Brand" flooring, had a wigwam in a woods and a big chief smoking in peaceful quietness; Fred R. Welsh, advertising an auto trailer, and the Grayling Telephone company with a float representing a miniature telephone system; there were poles, crossarms, insulators, wires, telephone receivers, transmitters and in fact a complete plant on wheels. These were followed by a large number of prettily decorated autos.

The parade wound up at the court yard and promptly at 11:00 o'clock speaking began at the band stand.

Good Speeches.

There were several good speeches made and each speaker seemed to sense deeply the spirit of the occasion. Th honored guests of the day were drawn up in double file close up about the band stand. Mayor Hans Petersen, acted as chairman and before introducing the other speakers offered the greetings of the village of Grayling. He said we appreciate what our boys have done and that all nations look up to the American soldiers and many salute our flag. He made many other very appropriate and pleasing remarks.

Comrade Wm. S. Chalker, told how our boys had gone singing and laughing "over-the-top", which spirit helped to win the war, and how that had Germany not surrendered that the Americans and Allies would have driven the German army all over Germany.

Rasmus Hanson, who was down for "Remarks", struck the nail on the head when he said that it looked as the half the crowd was there. Certainly the crowd was immense. He said some pleasing things to the soldiers and sailors and assured them of the gratitude of the people for having saved their homes. This being Labor day he stated that he believed the ideal day for our laboring man was to work 8 hours, recreate 8 hours and sleep 8 hours, and believed that Congress should enact a bill to make 8 hours a legal day's work. At the close of his speech the men in uniform gave three rousing cheers for the speaker.

"Our Country" was the subject of a talk given by Rev. Terhune, one of Frederick's most splendid citizens. He said that he had traveled 250 miles to be there and it gave him joy to look into the faces of the boys that day and told how he had lost a son in the service. He was the only child in the family and the loss was a severe blow to Rev. and Mrs. Terhune. He said that he always had a warm spot in his heart for every soldier. He paid a splendid tribute to our country and gave several reasons why we should love it, and of privileges that were ours.

T. W. Hanson, who was chairman of Crawford County's war activities, and was present at every meeting held during the war, spoke of our boys' departures to training camps, was to greet the boys again that day but under vastly different conditions. He greeted the boys warmly and said that the people had never forgotten their obligation that they would stand behind them here at home. He told of the work of the War Board and reviewed some of their activities in the various campaigns to sell Liberty bonds and raise money for the various war funds and told how Crawford county had made a most enviable record. His talk was as usual inspiring and interesting. Before closing he formally surrendered his gavel as county chairman of the County's war activities as now the war is over and it will no longer be needed. He also was given three cheers by the boys in uniform.

Col. A. H. Gansser, of the Old 33rd regiment, who is extremely popular with the men everywhere, was present and it was a rare treat to the soldiers to have the privilege to hear him that day. The Colonel's popularity does not end with the men in the service. He is well liked by everybody that know him. He greeted the boys as "Buddies." His talk was cheering and interesting, and had many wise suggestions for future welfare during the period between war and peace.

The boys in line did not intend to be out done completely by the citizens and saw one of their members, Sgt. Francis Reagan to the speakers' stand and he very kindly, in behalf of the boys, thanked the citizens for their hearty welcome that they were extending to them that day.

Rev. C. E. Doty of Michelson Memorial church was the last speaker on the program and sprang a number of "pat" jokes at the expense of the soldiers and caused considerable laughter. In seriousness he told the soldiers that the people are expecting more of them for examples and that we were placing our little sons in their care and that much responsibility rested upon them. The greatest thing we can do for the soldiers is to expect them to go out and make good. He closed the meeting with prayer. There were several veterans of the Civil war present and they were given three lustrous cheers, and Comrade Chalker started three cheers for the boys in khaki.

At about 2:00 p. m. there was a water battle between members of Hose company Nos. 1 and 2, resulting with a victory for Company No. 1.

The Ball Game.

The base ball game between Grayling and the Hanson-Ward team of Bay City began at 2:30 p. m. Admission was free to all and the Ball park was packed to capacity limit. Grayling had beaten the visitors the preceding day by a score of 7 to 8 and another close game was looked for that day.

The game was very exciting from start to finish and was an exhibition that was a pleasure to witness. Grayling won by a score of 9 to 6. Johnson and B. Laurent were the battery for Grayling and Trovinger and Lukowski started for the visitors but Knob replaced Trovinger in the fifth inning.

At 7:00 o'clock the Grayling band played another concert at the band stand. There was a large crowd present to enjoy it and each selection was liberally applauded.

The last but not least attraction on the program was the dance at the school gymnasium. Like the ball game, there was no charge for admission. The big gymnasium was packed with people. Here too the decorating committee had done good work and beneath a canopy of light green tinted ribbons of crepe paper, hung scores of flags and streamers and large "welcome" signs appeared at each end of the room. It was an exceedingly pretty party and was the closing event of a day that will linger long in the minds of the people of Crawford county and especially to those young men for whom the day had been set apart.

Thruout the whole affair, beginning with the first preliminary meeting to make arrangements for the welcoming home of our soldier- and sailor-boys there was that unmistakable spirit that there should be nothing within reason left undone that would make the event a proud success. Everybody did the best they could. And our honored guests of the day are deeply appreciative of the spirit of the people at home and say they are proud to belong to a community like ours.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

You may learn something from the following by W. H. Ireland, a traveling salesman of Louisville, Ky. "In the summer of 1888 I had a severe attack of cholera morbus. I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea remedy and to take no substitute. I took a double dose of it according to the directions and went to sleep. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping place, a well man." Adv.
